Rehearsal venue for
Brass Messiah
 Monday 17th March 2008

The rehearsal with the band for this concert will be held on Monday 17th March in the Croydon Citadel building starting at 1930, going on until around 2130. Please allow extra time to get there from Wimbledon or from wherever you will be travelling to ensure a good prompt start. It would really be much appreciated if as many of you as possible can be there to give support to the conductor that evening. The Citadel is on Booth Road (naturally!) and it right by the Jubilee flyover. There is a tram stop (Reeves Corner) next to the flyover on Cairo New Road and the Citadel is a two minute walk under the flyover (well-lit underneath). The return tram to Wimbledon can be boarded on Church Street. If you're driving, then you need to turn off the flyover (Roman Way) by the set of lights on it if you've approached from Wimbledon. Turn off left here, following the road round to the left until you go back under the flyover onto Waddon New Road. The first road on the left is Lower Church Street and the Jubilee car park is on that. The evening charge is about £2-3 I think. The Citadel's postcode is CRO 1XY. On concert day - Saturday 22nd March - the rehearsal will likely start at 1530.
